NOTE. — This eighty-fifth annual report of the Education Society follows the report for 1900, which is numbered twenty-fifth. On the union in 1875 the forty-ninth report of the American Education Society and the thirty-second of the American College Society were merged in the first annual report of the American College and Education Society. The series begun at that time has been continued in subsequent reports. The method is confusing, however, and has ceased to be significant. This report, therefore, which might have been called the twenty-seventh, combines the original numeration, and appears as the eighty-fifth.

BOSTON.

 Money for the Society may be sent to S. F. WILKINS,
Treasurer, 612 Congregational House, Boston.

FORM OF BEQUEST.

I do hereby give and bequeath to the CONGREGATIONAL EDUCATION SOCIETY the sum of —— dollars to be paid within —— months after my decease, and to be applied to the uses and purposes of that Society.

 Fifty dollars constitutes an Honorary Membership.

ANNUAL MEETING.

THE Eighty-fifth Annual Meeting of the Congregational Education Society was held in Pilgrim Hall, Congregational House, Boston, on June 19th, 1901, at 2 o'clock, P.M.

The members of the Society, of whom a quorum was present, were called to order by the President, Rev. William H. Willcox, D.D.

Rev. C. O. Day was made clerk.

Prayer was offered by Rev. Eugene C. Webster.

The reading of the minutes of the last annual meeting of the Society was omitted, these having been already printed in the annual report, copies of which were distributed among the members.

A committee consisting of Rev. C. B. Rice, D.D., Rev. C. H. Beale, D.D., Rev. Doremus Scudder, D.D., was appointed to nominate officers for the ensuing year.

The report of the Treasurer was read by the clerk, and the same was approved, and ordered to be printed in the Annual Report.

The Annual Report of the Directors having been read in extract by the Secretary, it was accepted and referred to the Secretary for completion and printing in the Annual Report.

The committee appointed to nominate officers presented the following names :

For President, Rev. William H. Willcox, D.D., LL.D.

For Vice-President, Rev. John Henry Barrows, D.D., LL.D.

For Directors for three years, Charles H. Beale, D.D., Thomas Todd, Esq., David Fales, Esq., C. J. Hurlbut, Esq., Rev. William R. Campbell and Charles O. Day, D.D.

These persons were duly elected by ballot to the several offices for which they were named.

J. A. Hamilton, D.D. was elected by ballot to be Honorary Secretary.

Charles O. Day, D.D. was reelected by ballot to be Corresponding Secretary of the Society, to hold office for the remainder of the present month of June.

Rev. Edward S. Tead of Somerville, Mass., was unanimously elected by ballot to be Corresponding Secretary for the ensuing year, his official connection to begin July 1st.

S. F. Wilkins, Esq. was elected by ballot to be Treasurer for the ensuing year.

H. N. Ackerman, Esq. was elected by ballot to be Auditor for the ensuing year.

The committee appointed at the last annual meeting to nominate life members, consisting of Thomas Todd, Esq., C. H. Beale, D.D., and Arthur Little, D.D., presented the following names: Rev. Messrs. William E. Wolcott, Lucius H. Thayer, Austin B. Bassett, Calvin M. Clark, Charles H. Oliphant, James F. Brodie, Charles W. Huntington, Isaac C. Smart; also, Henry H. Procter, Esq., William A. Paine, Esq., and Leonard A. Treat, Esq.

These gentlemen were duly elected as life members of the Society.

The same committee, namely, Messrs. Todd, Beale and Little, was reappointed to nominate life members at the next annual meeting.

No other business being presented, the meeting adjourned.

Attest:

EIGHTY-FIFTH ANNUAL REPORT

OF THE

CONGREGATIONAL EDUCATION SOCIETY

(FORMERLY AMERICAN EDUCATION SOCIETY, AFTERWARD AMERICAN COLLEGE AND EDUCATION SOCIETY.)

THE Directors beg leave to present herewith their Annual Report of the work of the Society for the year ending May 31st, 1901.

The work of the year compares favorably with that of the one preceding. It is true that we show a shrinkage in contributions. This is due to three facts. One is, the large gift made last year by Dr. Pearsons, which with our special effort to meet his pledge, raised our mark higher than normal. Another fact is, that less pressure than usual has been brought to bear upon individual donors, because of assistance given during the previous year. But chiefly the fact is, that while greater sums have been raised in the West than before, they have not been in all cases entered upon our books, but have been transmitted directly from givers to schools. We have, however, given considerably more to academies and missions than last year; have paid all outstanding claims; are clear of debt; and have a small working balance in the treasury.

The system undertaken last year in the student department has worked well, all claims having been promptly paid with a surplus in this department. The year has been the most successful in the recent past in New Mexico, including new building at Cabezon and Cubero, a successful transfer of the Barelás Mission, the wisdom of which has been vindicated by results; and in Utah admirable foundation work has been done by Professor Smith of Gordon Academy. Remarkable success has been accomplished in raising money and paying debts, in securing endowments and setting forward work, at Kingfisher, Eureka, Gates, and Chadron. Best of all are two circumstances. One is the character of the work, a quiet, far-reaching Christian effort, the object of which is to introduce spiritual forces by the training of young people, into the various currents of national life. But, next, an evident open door for enterprise in every quarter. In the theological department a new and great opportunity appears. So, in every field, there never was a better chance for aggressive work or more manifest and providential need of it. The business of strengthening the pulpit, Christianizing education, and lifting at the heavier burdens of human existence, is the very work which organized Christianity is bound to do. All we desire is that the churches should know just what this work is.

The Education Society has a name which defines its purpose with the utmost clearness, and yet in its effects it branches out into the widest relationships. There is no department of missionary work which it does not touch. Take, for example, city missions. As in the communities where we have colleges or academies the graduates become the distinctively Christian forces in society; so in the great centers of population, the very best elements are these sturdy young people whose ambition leads them to seek the great opportunities of life, to which they bring vital Christianity. In like manner, home missionary work depends upon such reënforcements. When a church is started, there must be a nucleus of intelligently trained members. Their pastors come from our colleges. Likewise, the foreign missionary spirit in our Western churches is nurtured by foreign missionary societies and studies in our Christian schools. These train the best of our foreign missionaries. Our student aid work joins on. Young men come up to the colleges and seminaries with their hearts set upon foreign missionary labor, and we meet them with our scholarships, enabling them to start for their field of labor unhampered by debt. Some of our homeland work is foreign missionary; for there is no more foreign field than New Mexico; and certainly work in Utah can be called foreign missions, in that it directly neutralizes the Mormon foreign missionary propaganda.

The special features of our work will be treated in detail under each department. In general these points may be noted: progress in the systematizing of grants and reports; with the method of making regular grants at the September meeting of the Directors, and supplementary grants at the February meeting; also the method of requiring a semi-annual report June first as a basis for the annual report and the September grant; and also January first, as a basis for the supplementary grant. During the year another state, Michigan, has come into the federation plan; but in this case, by an agreement, not between the Society and the State Association, but between the Society, Olivet College, and Benzonia Academy. Further concentration in management has been effected by the election of Mr. Wilkins as treasurer of the New West Education Commission, he having been made a corporate member of that organization. Thus all of our treasury work is carried on by one man. While, moreover, the secretary of the New West Education Commission must still reside in Chicago, a secretary for the Directors has been elected from the Boston membership, thus facilitating the calling of meetings of the Directors of the Commission.

During the year the Western office has been conducted with great energy and efficiency by the Western Field Secretary, Rev. Theodore Clifton, D.D. His work is mainly the uplifting of institutions taken singly, or of circles of institutions taken by states. He moves from one to the other, encouraging, arousing, raising money. The sums he raises are the Society's contributions to the Western educational work. This is to be specially noted, because much of the result of his labor does not appear in our record of receipts. For example, one of the great successes of last year was achieved in December, in connection with the efforts to raise an endowment for the Southern Kansas Academy at Eureka, Kansas. Our secretary took hold at the point when success was questionable; he raised over $8,000 and ensured a victory. While this sum does not show upon the Society's books it is nevertheless to be credited to the Western Secretary's work and to the Society which contributes his labor to the institutions. Dr. Clifton has done similar work for Fairmount College, and at other points. In general, his immediate attempt is to build up the Congregational forces of the several states to the point of self-support of their own schools. But his final objective is to develop increasingly the general educational benevolence of the churches for purely missionary and outreaching effort. On this broad line of Congregational enterprise of the highest character the strong churches of the great middle West should come to the support of our general treasury, as appealed to by our Western Field Secretary.

At the very end of the year the resignation of the Corresponding Secretary has been presented and accepted. This made necessary the choice of a new officer at the annual meeting. The election of the Rev. Edward S. Tead of Somerville, Mass., has met with a general expression of hearty approval. Mr. Tead has been the successful pastor of an important church; he has great sympathy with young people; and has had valuable experience as a member of the executive committee of the American Missionary Association. He possesses, intellectually and temperamentally, unusual qualifications for a wise and vigorous administration.

DEPARTMENT OF THEOLOGICAL SCHOLARSHIPS.

THE Society would again call attention to the four points of its policy in this department, namely: that the churches must themselves coöperate in the work of raising up an adequate ministry; that if pecuniary need is the occasion for assistance, a high degree of scholarly and personal merit must condition it; that the students should be enabled to concentrate their best efforts upon their studies during the brief years in which they pursue them; and finally, that it is a matter of great importance that they be enabled to go forth from the seminary free of debt, so that they shall not be led into competition for lucrative positions, but be able to enter remote and difficult fields.

The general contention of this society is that the churches must take an active part in raising up ministerial leaders. The ideal method is followed when the seminaries, upon whose work the churches absolutely depend, are so generously endowed that they can control the situation in matters of standard of scholarship, while offering magnificent facilities for poor, who may be among the ablest, men. Pending such future provision, our scholarship system represents the same effort on the part of the churches. We aim to fulfill the ideal method, ourselves, by insisting upon such standards of work as that the product shall be of the requisite quality. When applications are sent to us from the institutions they are closely scanned. When they are in all respects regular they are approved. When there is need of further examination they are referred back. This work of reference is most cordially accepted by the institutions, which are themselves as deeply interested as we are in the effort to turn out the best men.

It is noticeable that more men than usual have this year accepted grants as loans, giving their notes for payment. This independent spirit is rising and may well be fostered. Several seminaries, among them notably Andover and Yale, condition financial aid from their own funds upon adequate work done by the students. Aid thus becomes compensation.

The number of men receiving our scholarships has been one hundred and thirty-nine, one more than last year. Their colleges or seminaries are as follows :

COLLEGES.
Amherst	8	Marietta	2
Boston University	1	Olivet	4
Brown University	1	Pomona	1
Colorado	2	Princeton	1
Dartmouth	4	Rollins	2

Meanwhile a new line of effort has opened. The one great demand for hundreds of Southern Congregational churches is an educated ministry. Students from Northern seminaries are not available. Young men sent from the South to Northern seminaries remain North. Moreover, educational advantages are needed, not merely for young men before entering the ministry, but for men already responsible for churches, many of whom were merely laymen set apart by the churches as, on the whole, best able to lead worship and exhort the people. To provide a center of light for them, as well as to train up Southern young men on their own ground, it seems necessary that some sort of an institution should be located in the South, at Atlanta, for example, with the privilege of the plant of the Central and other churches, and as the natural rallying-point for that region. It has not appeared to the directors of the Education Society that the time had come when they could go to the length of organizing a seminary.

Yet the need was evident, and the Society took one forward step. It felt that the main thing needed for any new enterprise is a vigorous man to work at it. If such a man should be employed to study the situation, plan lines of development, make reports, begin teaching work, and see what the "situation" holds, it would be the best and only course at present possible for the Society. This plan was adopted, and next year the Society will put in fifteen hundred dollars in the interest of our churches and brethren in that section of the country to provide for such a wise and consecrated student and promoter of a work absolutely essential.

INSTITUTIONS DEPARTMENT.

COLLEGES.

The Education Society is not at work in behalf of institutions that need no help. Many of these, whose names are both famous and familiar, have been nurtured into independence. Others, however, are still struggling. The argument for their "right to be" is undoubted. The work they do is of unquestioned excellence. Their absolute independence in the future is a certainty. They need a hearty uplift just now.

The influence of institutions, such as those we help and have helped, is of the strongest and purest in America. They mold the infant life of new communities, and open fountains for future ages to drink at. They receive and make effective the influence of the great personalities who guide them. They furnish the strongest leaders. They exercise the most effective influence in behalf of moral reform and social progress. They stand before the people as representatives of things not material,—learning, truth, character. They leaven the ideals of the common people. They stand for the teaching of Christian truth, and in them resides the secret of intelligent religious life for American civilization and its world-wide influence.

One college enterprise, however, has come to an end. It has proved to be impossible to build up Ridgeville College, Indiana. The resources in the community and the Congregational forces in the state have proved to be inadequate. The need of the region is very great, yet the situation of the school is apparently unfavorable. At any rate, the effort has ceased, and the college is no more. The attempt was bravely and reasonably undertaken, and fairly tried, but to a negative conclusion.

A second college enterprise, that at Salt Lake City, is in abeyance. Our institution retains its college charter, and can be pushed up to the college type when the time seems right. Meanwhile, as will be reported under the Salt Lake Training School for Teachers and Gordon Academy, vigorous reconstructive and aggressive work has been done, and the outlook for wholesome Congregational influence of the educating sort upon the Mormon question is distinctly hopeful. Congregationalists in Utah should and will take increasing interest in this great work and make and sustain it as their own.

Another institution is coming to the front with collegiate claims. Our school at Kingfisher, Oklahoma, is keeping pace with the rapid movement of that coming state. Kingfisher Academy is, in Oklahoma, Kingfisher College. It is doing college work up to junior year grade. It will graduate college men and women in two years.

The other colleges on our list are three; each vigorous, admirably located, with a constituency and influence and a growing name which stamp them with the character of deserved success. Where complete independence is yet delayed, it is not because there is any question of the inherent wisdom of the enterprise itself. These colleges, Fairmount, Fargo and Rollins, may now, by their respective presidents, speak for themselves.

Fairmount College, Wichita, Kansas.

N. J. MORRISON, D.D., LL.D., President.

During the last year — the sixth of our college history — two hundred and thirty-four students have been in attendance, of whom seventy-one belonged to the four college classes. This is an increase in general attendance over the previous year of nearly twenty-four per cent.

At the beginning of the year the Department of Domestic Science was added to our general plan of instruction. The Director of the Department is a well-trained graduate of the Kansas State Agricultural College. Her work has proved quite attractive to our students and to not a few ladies resident in the city. The department is likely to be permanent, and a feature of a properly equipped Industrial School, which we hope soon to inaugurate.

The corps of permanent instructors has remained much as heretofore, their admirable work steadily deepening its legitimate impression on school and community. The young college has won a strong position in the respect, confidence and affection of the citizens of Wichita generally. Most of the graduates of the city high school, who take a college course anywhere, enter at Fairmount. Between the public school authorities of the city and the state and the college the happiest relations exist. Graduates of the college, who have also taken our prescribed Normal Course of study, at once receive from the State Board of Education of Kansas certificates authorizing them to teach school anywhere in the state, thereby treating our graduates precisely as the State Board of Education treats graduates from the State University and the State Normal School.

Important additions have been made to our illustrative scientific apparatus. The excellent library has steadily grown in number of volumes, improved in quality and classification, and increased in utility to students, faculty, and community. The accessions for the year number about three thousand, besides pamphlets.

By purchase at a great bargain the college has added about ninety acres of farm lands to its real estate. The tract adjoins the college campus at one corner. At present the rental of the land equals seven per cent. on the cost, while in market value it has enhanced since the purchase fully fifty per cent. It may be that the tract will be wanted for the site of an experiment station in agriculture and horticulture, by and by, when the college becomes able to install a Department of Industrial Education.

During the year the President of the college has devoted most of his time and energies to raising money both for current expenses and also to meet the conditions imposed by the proposed gift by Dr. D. K. Pearsons. On the first day of July the full sum of $75,000 had been subscribed, the main condition on which Dr. Pearsons based his offer of $25,000. Toward the amount raised for this fund the citizens of Wichita, the Trustees and the Faculty have subscribed with great liberality, an amount in the aggregate of over $37,000. This amount is contributed by two hundred and twenty-three individuals, or firms, all of whom but three or four reside in Wichita and neighboring parts of Kansas. The Wichita list of subscribers includes all the banks, nearly all the principal merchants, the real estate men, the lawyers and doctors, and several of the ministers.

This achievement is certainly a high testimony to the character and value of Fairmount College; it reflects even greater honor on the people of Wichita,—not a man of wealth among them,—just now recovering from the most disastrous financial collapse (1893-1897), perhaps, that ever afflicted an American city.

The administration of the college expects to add another hundred thousand dollars to the permanent endowment of the college during the ensuing college year.

Good order, devotion to study, good progress, hard labor by student and teacher, have characterized the year. In a religious sense, it has been the best year the college has known—more general attention to Bible study, more students beginning the religious life, more candidates for the ministry.

Early last May the Kansas State Association of Congregational Churches held its annual session with the Plymouth Church. The delegates in a body were entertained by the Faculty at the college. Expressions of surprise at the progress made in the short six years, and of fraternal interest in the future development and growth of the institution, were hearty and universal.

Fargo College, Fargo, North Dakota.

JOHN H. MORLEY, LL.D., President.

The college closes the financial year with its current expenses paid, and with substantial progress in the canvass for endowment. This is gratifying because the failure of the wheat crop last year embarrassed many of our patrons.

The music department has been brought into closer connection with the college, and has been enlarged by the appointment of a director, and by the addition of a course in vocal culture. A music hall given now with a small endowment upon it would develop our musical capacities. The formation of a Glee Club, which has been favorably received in different communities, has awakened enthusiasm. The teaching in the college and the work of the students have been of a high order. The beginnings of cabinet collections in two or three departments have been made, and valuable additions to the library secured.

There is a noticeable increase among the students of the college spirit, as shown in marked loyalty to the institution, and in efforts to secure new students. Our young people, the sons and daughters of farmers, who come here to study, develop the best type of character, and compare favorably with those of older institutions at the East.

If some philanthropist, who seeks to invest money where it will bring noble returns in scholarship and character, would investigate our work, our need of additional buildings, and of additional chairs of instruction, he would find no place where money would do more good than at Fargo.

Rollins College.

ITS EXTENDED CURRICULUM.

GEORGE M. WARD, D.D. President.

During the school year ending June, 1901, Rollins College has grown steadily in enrollment of students and in the development of its courses of study. The three large dormitories have been filled with students, and it will probably be necessary to build another to meet the demands of the ever-increasing numbers. The students now in attendance at Rollins College are, on the average, considerably older and more advanced than those of the previous years, and a larger number than usual are taking courses of study in the college proper. A majority of the states of the Union, and also a majority of the counties of Florida, are represented in the student body. There are several Cubans in attendance at Rollins. For their benefit six special classes have been organized, so that the Spanish-speaking students may learn English quickly and thoroughly. As soon as they have acquired a knowledge of English they are admitted to the regular classes. By this means the English-speaking students are in no way hampered in their class work.

Rollins College now includes a College of Arts and Sciences, a Preparatory School, a Business School, and Schools of Music and Art. In the college the following courses of study were offered this year: Economics and Law, five courses; Bible study, four courses; Philosophy, four courses; Greek, seven courses; Latin, ten courses; Modern Languages, nine courses; English, seven courses; History, five courses; Natural Science, twelve courses; Mathematics, seven courses; and Physical Culture, four courses. A limited elective system in the college has now stood the test of four years, and has proved in every way satisfactory.

As a rule, in the smaller colleges in this country, Latin and Greek are required throughout the college courses, largely by reason of the fact that the college does not offer a sufficient number of elective courses. This difficulty has presented itself at Rollins College, and it has been necessary, at considerable expense, to increase the number of electives in the Sciences, Modern Languages, Mathematics, etc., in order to supply the needs of those students that do not wish to follow a strictly classical course.

The courses of study offered by the Rollins Preparatory School cover the work done in a well-equipped grammar school (one year), and in a high school (four years). There are three courses of study offered: first, one including Latin and Greek; second, including Latin but not Greek; and third, not including either Latin or Greek, but substituting an equivalent amount of work in the Sciences and Modern Languages. The diploma of the Preparatory School admits to Rollins College or other institutions of learning of equal rank. The Business School is now equipped with all the appliances of a bank or counting room, so that the student may obtain practice in the everyday work of commercial life. Three courses of study are offered: the Commercial course, the Shorthand course, and the Telegraphy course.

Salt Lake Training School For Teachers, and Gordon Academy.

BY PRINCIPAL FRANK W. SMITH.

The twenty-third year for Gordon Academy began with a reorganization of the schools and plans for progressive and telling work. A new department for the professional training of teachers was added and began work at once. Friends East and West stood by with financial support. The end of the year sees a bright look and a hopeful outlook. There are encouraging signs of confidence in the school and of a disposition to use the opportunities it offers. Lines of communication and influence have been started and must be kept up and increased in number. An interesting school spirit has been manifest.

The school has emphasized modern educational methods. Courses of high grade requiring earnest efforts are being conducted by cultured teachers representing prominent colleges and universities. There are preparatory courses for college and technical schools, courses for general culture, and a course for the professional training of teachers. Already Colorado College has placed the Academy on its "accredited list" of preparatory schools. A high standard of scholarship and character is held before students. In carrying out the courses it is found possible to give individual attention.

A course of free lectures has been inaugurated and maintained, and has been well supported by lecturers and audiences. An educational journal devoted to the interests of the school, and including, in its material, contributions as to the Congregational Educational work in the state and discussions as to general educational problems and methods, has been established and has a circulation of three hundred or more. The leading city daily has printed a short paragraph of school items whenever they have been presented.

The physical condition of the school is receiving careful attention. During the year a generous sum of money has been spent upon improvements which will be supplemented during the present summer. A good school building, equipped with library, laboratories, and facilities for music, halls for young men and young women, and ample grounds with special appliances for recreation, gives good facilities for an educational institution.

Altogether Gordon Academy shows a progressive spirit. Fortified by its past, and looking on its present and its future—its opportunities for work in the state where there are no full high school courses outside a few large towns, and generally no high school courses at all, and where there are young people everywhere who are pushing on to higher courses of study, or ought to do so—it is bound to be a large educational force.

Graduation week presented several features of interest—an exhibition of school work and camera work (consisting of many large charts displaying students' papers, collections of pictures used in the art class and camera views), the contest for the Gordon prizes for declamation, the faculty reception, followed by an undergraduate reception to the graduates, the baccalaureate sermon on "The Prophethood of Knowledge," by Dr. Brown of the First Congregational Church, and, on the 18th, the graduation exercises, when four fine young people received diplomas, and addresses were made by President Hall and Dr. Leilich, superintendent of the Methodist work in Utah. Thus closed a successful year at Gordon.

THE ACADEMIES.

The year closes with twenty-one academies upon our list as against seventeen last year. The four which have been added are Benzonía Academy, Michigan; Gates Academy, Nebraska; Southern Collegiate Institute, Albion, Ill.; and Weiser Academy, Idaho. This makes the entire list to be as follows:

Benzonia Academy.	Procter Academy.
Chadron Academy.	Puget Sound Academy.
Endeavor Academy.	Rogers Academy.
Franklin Academy.	Southern Kansas Academy.
Gates Academy.	Southern Collegiate Institute.
German-English School.	Ward Academy.
Hull Institute.	Weeping Water Academy.
Iberia Academy.	Weiser Academy.
Kidder Institute.	Windom Institute.
Kingfisher Academy.	Woodcock Academy.
North Wisconsin Academy.

Nor is any work of an educational, or Christian, or patriotic character carried forward in this country of more value than that undertaken by these schools. The church is bound to maintain educational centers as part of her system of work. Distinctively Christian schools must build into the lives of young students the deeper principles of the kingdom of God. Well-equipped academies must provide the best advantages out in the Western plains, where high schools of sufficient grade to complete secondary training do not exist. Even upon the public schools the church can thus have the most effective influence. The best leaders for the public system are those teachers who have had closest touch with some form of Christian school. Nor can our Western schools yet cease to make appeal to the East for help. As fast as possible they are pushed toward self-support; but the academies sustained by the Education Society are most of them still absolutely dependent upon Eastern beneficence. The various institutions that enrich public life in the East are the gift of earlier generations. For the West the East is the earlier generation.

Benzonia Academy, Benzonia, Michigan.

Benzonia Academy, in the northwestern part of Michigan, is located in a region where its founders thought at first that a college was essential. But concentration in behalf of college work having been given to Olivet, the institution at Benzonia has been developed as an academy. It has enjoyed for the past year the able leadership of Prof. Charles W. Dunn. It has had six teachers and ninety-five scholars, of whom forty-six have been in academic classes, and thirty-eight have been church members. It has assets of $17,000 and upward, with no mortgages and comparatively small arrearages, while the work is done economically, with a salary list kept at about $2,600. The academy has been gaining in favor with its natural constituency during the year. The enrollment for the spring term is thirty per cent. increase over the same term last year. The outlook for next year is favorable to increased attendance and to greater efficiency in teaching equipment. The budget of expenses is to be reduced. The principal is to teach. A thoroughly equipped science teacher comes to the work. By an agreement between Olivet College, Benzonia Academy and the Education Society, financial work in the state of Michigan is to be systematically conducted and satisfactorily divided. The indications are that the school, as in the past year, will be energetically and wisely administered. Its recent record has been a thoroughly good one.

Chadron Academy, Chadron, Nebraska.

This school in northwestern Nebraska is one of the most important of our Congregational academies. It lies in the very heart of a vast pioneer stock-raising country. It is on distinctly missionary ground. In the local Congregational Association there are but seven churches, with a combined membership of 324, not one of which is self-supporting. They are scattered over four counties, which have a combined area of 5,384 square miles. Let a radius of 200 miles in length, with Chadron as a center, sweep Western Nebraska, starting from the South Dakota line, east, and move southward and westward until it passes out of the state, and it will not include a single self-supporting Congregational church in all the vast Nebraska territory it would cover. The principal of this missionary school is L. M. Oberkotter. Four salaried teachers have been at work. The students number 110, of whom fifty-five are in academic classes. The large number who take music and art, a self-supporting department, shows the ideal aspirations of Western young people. The school has assets of about $15,000, and is still burdened with a debt which has now been reduced to the neighborhood of $5,000. Large grants must be made by the Education Society for some time to come, and our churches must realize the missionary character of the school.

Christian Endeavor Academy, Endeavor, Wisconsin.

This institution, located in the very heart of a state which especially needs in behalf of its educational work the leaven of a purely Christian character, has bravely held on through the year in the face of serious difficulty. This has been chiefly due to the illness of the principal, Rev. R. L. Cheney. Fortunately, in his vice-principal, Prof. A. H. Young, a faithful and efficient substitute has been found. But the striking down of the head, where everything seemed to depend upon him, was disastrous. The school has had four instructors and thirty-three academic students. It has assets in real estate and buildings and other property of about $25,000. Liabilities amount to $5,000 in round numbers. A strenuous effort has been undertaken and is still going forward to complete the wing of the extensive school building planned by Mr. Cheney. This will require $5,000, and will be adequate for the immediate purposes of the school. We are glad to be able to report that Mr. Cheney is improving and will probably be at his post with the beginning of another year. The interests of this academy, as is the case with our other Congregational schools in Wisconsin, are looked out for by the Educational Committee of the State Association, with the coöperation of our Western Field Secretary. Christian Endeavor Academy is not only the center of light for its own community but an important adjunct of Ripon College.

Franklin Academy, Franklin, Nebraska.

This school has completed another excellent year of work. It is one of the best of our Western institutions. That it is needed both to fit young people for college and also to train teachers for the high schools themselves is evident from the fact that recently the principal of a high school in a certain shire town came to Franklin for further instruction and found himself three years short of the point of graduation. The assets of the school amount to $26,500. Debts, $4,800. There are seven salaried teachers, with Prof. Alexis C. Hart at the head. The number of students is 133, of whom 107 are in academic classes, and eighty are church members. The principal reports advance. The reputation of the school for good, thorough work is increasing, and the love of the people for the institution is greater each year. If their ability were equal to their will, they would not need help from outside. Successful work for the ensuing year is insured by the retention of the same corps of teachers. Vigorous effort to clear off the debt is to be prosecuted, as the trustees feel that after the successes of Doane College and Gates Academy, the turn of Franklin should come next and everything be cleared up. This noble institution deserves every possible encouragement and support.

Gates Academy, Neligh, Nebraska.

This institution began its history as a college, but two years ago with great wisdom became an academy, and thus strengthened the almost ideal educational system of Nebraska. But the new academy found itself with a debt of $20,000, and for the past two years has been engaged in a tremendous struggle to pay it off. The effort finally reached the point when success depended, with the payment of gifts conditioned thereon, upon the completion of the work April 1, 1901. It was at this time that the Education Society came forward with a grant of $2,000, finishing the work. In connection with this the institution was formally adopted by this Society. The whole work of the year has been remarkably successful. Over $14,000 have been gathered in cash and debt abatement. Because of the release from this burden the feeling of depression which has manifested itself in all the work has been removed. Trustees, teachers, students and local friends are looking forward with new hope and courage. There have been in attendance four salaried teachers and 107 students, of whom those in academic classes number fifty-seven. The total assets are $25,000. On April 1 there was no debt. Principal J. A. Doremus says: "Every effort will be put forth by the trustees and officers to increase the student constituency, in order that the sum from tuitions may grow; and a systematic appeal will be made to the friends in this section of the state to help us as liberally as possible in the crisis of the coming year. It is the intention of the trustees to refrain from sending an agent of the school outside of the state, so that we shall be limited to the direct aid of the Society and what sums we may be able to gather by correspondence with Eastern friends. As it will be exceedingly difficult to gather in large sums among the friends who have helped us liberally the past two years, we shall feel the necessity for outside help in as large a measure as the Society can see its way clear to afford."

Hull Institute, Hull, Iowa.

The record of this excellent school does not essentially vary from that of previous years. The principal is Arthur R. Chase, who succeeded his father in this office. The school has assets of $20,000, with a small mortgage of $1,471. There have been four teachers with fifty scholars, of whom thirty-six are in academic classes. This school is located in the western part of Iowa and is in a region where there are no high schools doing advanced work. Many of the people in the neighborhood of the town are from Norway, Germany, and Holland. This circumstance enhances the importance of the school's location and gives it a home missionary point of view.

Iberia Academy, Iberia, Missouri.

There is no more interesting institution upon our list than that conducted at Iberia, Missouri, by Prin. G. Byron Smith. Its work well illustrates the character of life which our academies in the West maintain. Although this school is in Missouri, — almost an Eastern state, — yet it is the only secondary school of high grade in a region including four counties. It is so crowded with students that the recitation rooms will not hold them. With only three instructors and a salary list of but $1,330, ranking with Kingfisher and Ward in this respect, there have been 123 students, of whom 109 are in academic classes. The assets of the school amount to $6,800 and there are no debts. The vigorous work accomplished, its modern methods and splendid products, are so attracting students that the problem of the school turns upon two points: First, a home must be provided for the girls where they may have the best influences, and especially the personal attention of the teachers. Next, provision must be made that worthy young people shall not be deprived of the privileges of the academy because of the lack of funds. A striking feature of the situation is that because of the stone quarry owned by the school, money paid to provide stone for the building is paid to the students who do the work. But cash must be forthcoming to reimburse the students, and this must be contributed. This academy has been established only ten years, but its record is a proud one. Several graduates are in Drury College, Knox College, and the State University; a number are physicians, some are lawyers, others are prosperous in business, and a number are preaching the gospel; one is a county prosecuting attorney, and one is a member of the present state legislature. It is a school that vindicates the educational theory and aim of this Society in behalf of the undeveloped regions of our country.

Kidder Institute, Kidder, Missouri.

The work at Kidder the past year has been very satisfactory. This institution, most advantageously located upon the highest ground in the western part of Missouri, throws out the light of truth for all the country around. It is one of the largest schools upon our list. Its assets are $26,600. There are still debts amounting to $5,250. This amount is in process of gradual payment. The number of salaried instructors has been three, the number of students 125, of whom 114 are in academic classes, and ninety are church members. This represents a better showing than last year. The body of pupils is very promising, faithful, thorough, successful and loyal to the best interests of the school. Principal G. W. Shaw says: "We graduated at Commencement eighteen scholars in all departments; twelve being in the academic department alone. These are very promising. Several will go to college this fall; some will teach the coming year and then enter college. The outlook for next year is unusually bright. Our finances are improving. Twelve hundred dollars have been expended on repairs, which is a good investment. Still more should be expended in the same direction, as funds come in. The Missouri Fund has helped us greatly (this is the fund raised under the auspices of the Educational Committee of the State Association, and divided pro rata among the several schools). In fact, I do not see how we should have got through without it. We are making slow but sure progress, and look hopefully into the future."

North Wisconsin Academy, Ashland, Wisconsin.

This institution is located at the northernmost point in Wisconsin. It has assets of $43,500. It has no liabilities, except a deficit on the back salary account of $1,200. The salaries are very moderate, aggregating but $1,600 a year. The number of salaried teachers has been four, of students seventy; in academic classes, fifty-five. The school is under the energetic leadership of Principal M. J. Fenenga. The great difficulty which he finds is that the churches of Wisconsin, which undertook two years ago to support their own schools, as that state ought to do, have failed to meet their responsibility. What Mr. Fenenga writes on the subject is at once pointed and compact, and is worth quoting: "Last year, when $1,200 was to be raised in the state as the portion for our academy, only $300 in all reached us. This year it will take all our efforts to make up the balance of last year's $1,200, while not a cent upon this pledge of $1,200 will be likely to materialize. During the last two years the whole burden of expense has been left to the few trustees upon our board. Considerable dissatisfaction is quietly felt at the attitude of the Wisconsin Congregational churches in this matter. As things look now, we are against a shortage of $1,500 in the salary and incidental account at the close of this year. Whereas, if last year the $1,200 promised by the churches had been raised, and in like manner this year's portion, there would have been no shortage and no disgruntled trustees bearing the whole burden. To make this beautiful state self-support plan work is our problem. I wish that the Society might aid in getting the proper machinery to work, so that not too many years need elapse before self-support may truly support, even to a limited extent." The Education Society believes that the Wisconsin brethren are able to organize self-supporting machinery for themselves, at least to a limited extent.

Procter Academy, Provost City, Utah.

This school reports an enrollment of students reaching 296, an increase of 100 in three years. It is under the direct control and support of the Education Society, which owns the property. The assets are $12,000. The salary list is large, amounting to $4,680. Only $330 comes from other sources beside the general treasury. Virtually the entire cost is paid by those who believe in Congregational enterprise applied for the solution of the Mormon problem. The report of the principal, Rev. S. H. Goodwin, is so interesting that it is given without abbreviation:—

The promising conditions under which Procter Academy entered upon its eighteenth year continued with a single interruption (from small-pox) to the close. The outward evidence of increased prosperity took the form of a demand for more room and another teacher. At the beginning of the second month of school, a new room having been provided, Miss Genevieve Marlow was added to the teaching force, thus giving the academy a corps of eight teachers. In addition, a kindergartner's assistant and a teacher of elocution and physical expression were employed without expense to the Education Society.

"Opening Day," marking the eighteenth anniversary of the establishment of the school, was appropriately observed on November 19. During the afternoon and evening exercises in keeping with the occasion were given and at the close refreshments were served to the guests of the school. A historical souvenir was prepared and issued by the principal.

Late in the year Mr. Joseph O. Procter, for whom the academy was named, placed the school under new obligations to him by a gift of $100, to be devoted to the purchase of books for the library. If friends of the school could know how seriously we are handicapped by lack of books—especially of reference books—needed in our work, and could know in what straits we find ourselves on account of insufficient apparatus for academy work, I feel confident that other warm-hearted donors would desire a share in the hundredfold returns which come from every dollar invested in this school. The Brigham Young Academy, a church (Mormon) institution located here, which parallels our work—from the kindergarten up—in every department of which "theology" (Mormon) is taught, has a great advantage over us in the matter of library facilities and ample apparatus. A new building, to cost $20,000, to be paid for out of money derived from "tithing," is to be erected during the summer vacation.

Early in April union evangelistic services were held in the Congregational church and quite a number of pupils in Procter were reached. Following these services, a daily noon prayer meeting was successfully conducted by the teachers in the school building. Of the twenty-four students in the academic department, all but two are Christians, and of the forty-six accessions to the membership of the Congregational church during the past year (new members having been received at every communion service), nineteen were from the school and three others were in the school last year. The Sunday school has grown steadily, having had an average attendance during the past year of 108.

The closing week of the school year was marked by a school outing at the lake resort, the annual sermon, a patriotic cantata, given before an audience that filled our large hall, the organization and banquet of the Alumni Association, and graduating exercises of an unusually creditable character.

Procter Academy is doing its work quietly, steadily, and with increasing effectiveness and success. It has always stood well in the estimation of the people here—never better or higher than now; so they say who are in a position to know. To those who are acquainted with conditions here and who recognize the increasing usefulness and influence of this work, it seems that there is a large future, rich in possibilities of achievement for character and for righteousness.

Kingfisher Academy, Kingfisher, Oklahoma.

This rising institution, so vigorously conducted by Pres. J. T. House, has had a remarkable year. It is well known that Oklahoma is bound to be a state, and that soon. Although on the border line of Southern influence and type, it will be essentially a Northern state and progressive in sentiment. The movement of our sole institution has kept pace with the march of the state. It has combined economy and self-sacrifice with expansion. It has had 147 students. It now owns property worth $30,000, besides equipment. Most signal fact of all, it has pushed up into the college grade, having had a dozen students at work in the college department and expecting an entering college class of twelve students. The salary list is kept below $3,000, and for the amount of work done is the lowest of any of our institutions. Two facts of special interest have marked the history of the year. One is that, as in past years, so during the winter, a deep religious experience was enjoyed by the institution. The other has been the gratifying success attending recent efforts to provide a building for the young ladies and to complete in a measure the main building and provide for other absolutely essential items, such as seats for the college chapel, a cistern, outbuildings, scientific apparatus and similar needs. Two campaigns have been undertaken — one in the East and the other, with the coöperation of Dr. Clifton, in Oklahoma. The success of both has been most gratifying. As the old year gives way to the new, it may be said that both the Ladies' Hall and the essential equipment have been provided for. But it should be remembered that this is the only Congregational educational institution in a great coming state. What has been done does not begin to represent what Congregationalists ought to do in Oklahoma. As already is the case in the territory itself, so, generally, the claim of the institution to be a college must soon be granted. Eastern donors are already giving their money with the college idea and promise in mind. Now is the time to strike for Oklahoma and for the Christian education which Oklahoma most needs.

Puget Sound, Snohomish, Washington.

The condition of Puget Sound Academy remains as it was last year. No changes in the situation have been considered sufficiently marked to report. There has been a decrease in the number of students reported. Fifty-one are enrolled for the present year, of whom thirty-two are in academic classes. The number of salaried teachers is four. The assets are $25,500; the liabilities about $1,300, chiefly on the salary account. The teachers are paid $2,800 as the total. With the advance of Congregationalism in Western Washington this particular school ought to be sustained by local gifts, which, no doubt, will be the case in the near future. It is fortunate in its situation at Snohomish and in the especially fine school building which it occupies. It has an excellent reference library of a thousand volumes.

Rogers Academy, Rogers, Arkansas.

Rogers Academy, located at Rogers, Benton County, Arkansas, is in the heart of the great fruit belt known as the "apple orchard of America." The academy occupies a campus of eight acres in the heart of the city. It has two large buildings. The entire third floor of the main building is used as a dormitory for the young men. Elizabeth Hall, where the girls' room, with its nicely fitted apartments, is a genuine home for the young ladies, over which the principal and his wife preside. So far as the work done, student material, combination of rigid economy with the finest social training go, the school is now at the height of its prosperity. The principal, Morrison Weimer, is showing the best qualities of an educational leader. There have, during the past year, been in attendance five salaried teachers and 130 pupils, of whom ninety have been in academic classes. The assets, of which real estate includes $17,000, amount to nearly $20,000. The salary list is placed at $2,100; the liabilities, including a small mortgage for $1,600, have been cut down to $3,000, of which $400 is due to the principal himself. At the Commencement season an excellent graduating class called forth many compliments for Principal Weimer, Professor Hall, and their associates. The class was the first in the history of the school of which every member has completed the prescribed classical course. The prospects of the school are in every way good. Principal Weimer says: "My canvass of last year brought to us the best young people in this section. We want this to be the leading school in Arkansas. We need a new building for boys, such as we have for girls, and we need an endowment of $25,000." This amount could not be better invested than in the young life of Northern Arkansas.

Southern Collegiate Institute, Albion, Illinois.

This school came upon the list of the Society during the past year. It aims to meet the educational needs of the lower third of the state of Illinois. While the northern two-thirds are well supplied with universities, colleges, academies and professional schools, the remaining portion has but five, of which three are small and weak; the fourth is the state normal, and no one of them is nearer than eighty miles to the Southern Collegiate Institute. Parts of Indiana, Kentucky, and Missouri belong to the constituency. The young people of Southern Illinois are largely from New England, of Scotch-Irish stock. They are material for bright and teachable pupils. The town of Albion itself is an admirable home for such an institution. It is a good, quiet, churchgoing town. It was laid out and settled by an English colony and a colony from New England, most of which came by way of Virginia. It has not had a saloon for thirty-five years. The Albion jail seldom has an inmate. Our school has the strongest endorsement of the leading men of the state. Competent persons have said that it is one of the best schools in Illinois, and has in its president, Frank B. Hines, one of the ablest of educational leaders. There have been during the past year seven salaried instructors and an attendance of 202 students. Of these 156 are church members. The assets of the school amount to $27,500. There is a debt of $6,900, which is in process of being canceled. The State Association of Illinois has most heartily endorsed the school on different occasions. The church is closely associated with the institute, and has recently erected a $10,000 building in which are the music and lecture rooms of the school. President Hines reports: "The Southern Collegiate Institute is in a hopeful condition. Our teachers are excellent. No school ever had more harmony among its instructors. The spirit of the school is fine. We are steadily winning friends, and if with the aid of the Education Society we can continue for some years at our present rate of progress we are sure to achieve a signal success."

Southern Kansas Academy, Eureka, Kansas.

The attendance at this school last year was 150 students, of whom 100 were in academic classes. There have been four salaried instructors and professors. The assets now amount to $32,365. The salary list is about $3,000. The work of the past year has been characterized by a tremendous financial effort. The last of the indebtedness has been wiped out—about $1,800—and $19,075 has been secured in cash and notes for endowment. All but $700 of it has been raised in Eureka, and all but less than $200 in the county. Inasmuch as the people have been raising money liberally every year for current expenses, this effort for endowment has exhausted their resources and will make the school still dependent upon the Society for a while, until the income from the endowment, supplemented by tuitions, proves adequate. But the future of the institution would seem to be secure. The school has a wide field and is doing a great deal of good. The attendance is more regular and there is a corresponding gain in the character of the work done. The fifteenth anniversary was appropriately celebrated at the last Commencement, although the affair was saddened by the impending death of Mrs. J. W. Scroggs, the wife of the principal, which occurred a few days later.

Rev. Lewis E. Camfield has vigorously prosecuted his work during the past year. This school is quite removed from the railroad, and with unusual effectiveness combines the industrial idea with the theoretical education. The assets amount to $17,742. Of this sum, while buildings and campus foot up $7,000, farm and live stock amount to $7,800. The school owns something over one square mile. There have been sixty-seven students, all of them in academic classes; forty of these are church members. Most of the boys pay their way by work on the farm. There is a deficit of $2,904, half of it due in salaries. One cannot speak too highly of the character of the work done here. The school it most resembles is Iberia, Missouri, although the source of income which here is the farm is there the stone quarry. The wheat fields of Ward, the brickyard of Endeavor, and the stone quarry of Iberia are notable instrumentalities in higher education. Schools of this kind should especially invite the gifts of the benevolent and hold the loyal interest of friends of the Education Society.

Weeping Water Academy, Weeping Water, Nebraska.

This institution has well been called an old New England school set down in Nebraska. Its object is not to make money but to make men and women. It has assets amounting to $11,500. There are no debts, except a considerable deficit of about $1,200 on the salary account. There have been four paid teachers and 115 students, of whom sixty-seven have been in academic classes and forty-five are church members. In his report Principal F. C. Taylor comments upon the recent Commencement, held since our fiscal year closed but before this report goes to press, as the most enthusiastic in the school's history, and calls attention to the large class (twelve fully prepared for college), the largest audiences, and the best attended meeting of the trustees. He says that the enthusiasm for a girls' cottage is universal, as essential to the well-being and work of the school. A $4,000 building has been planned, with rooms for twenty young ladies, for conservatory parlors, preceptress, and others. A site has already been chosen, and the canvass of the home field for funds has been begun. The outlook for attendance is particularly good and interest is steadily growing.

Weiser Academy, Weiser, Idaho.

Weiser Academy was also taken upon the Society's list during the last year. The school reports assets of $13,000 and debts of $4,500, of which $2,500 is in the form of a mortgage. The salary account is $3,600. There have been seven salaried teachers and seventy-six students, all of them in academic classes, of whom thirty-eight are church members. Questions of reorganization have mainly occupied the attention of the trustees during the past year, and a new principal will need to be selected for the coming year. Reports of the Commencement declare the work of the school to have been successful. An elaborate program was rendered on the 19th of June in connection with the Commencement. An excellent address was made by Governor Hunt, of Idaho, which was received with enthusiasm by a large audience.

Wilton German-English School, Wilton, Iowa.

This institution, which undertakes a double work, being a Christian academy for Eastern Iowa and a preparatory school for the German work at Chicago Theological Seminary, has prosecuted its work with the usual result. The number of salaried instructors has been eight; the number of students 130, of whom eighty have been in academic classes, and forty-five are church members. The candidates for the ministry number nine. The assets are $20,000. There are still heavy arrearages, reaching up to $10,000 and over, of which $3,000 is a deficit upon the salary account. A great deal of attention has been paid to the management of the school, and the Western Field Secretary, Dr. Clifton, has had several conferences in Chicago and at Wilton with economy as the object in view. Meanwhile a school of this character, covering two departments and working in two languages, is bound to be expensive. The churches must either face the idea of abandoning this necessary effort to train up a German ministry for the 125 Congregational churches or they must give this school more money. Principal J. F. Grove is a man of the noblest character and most devoted spirit. The German Congregational churches of this country should adopt this school as their own. Although most of these churches are poor, yet if every one gave according to his ability the school would not lack support. The generous attention of individual donors is invoked for an institution of singular and useful character.

Windom Institute, Montevideo, Minnesota.

The year's work has been prospered. By reason of a legacy received last year, the income of which will be available next year, the school is moving toward complete self-support. Including this legacy, its assets foot up $51,450. There is still a considerable deficit on the other side, amounting to $6,120. The school has been conducted by three paid teachers, with several others in charge of self-supporting departments. The number of students has been 173, of whom ninety-one have been in academic classes and seventy-six church members. During the last half year the academic department has gained nineteen per cent. and tuition receipts thirty-three. The community is taking much interest in the school. In three days they pledged $1,000 toward clearing up the debt. This is remarkable when their resources are considered. A chemical laboratory has been established. The course of study has been lengthened to four years, and graduates can now enter any college in the state. The opportunity here is wonderful. The principal spends some time of the summer vacation in traveling through adjacent territory in the interest of the school. The trustees are contemplating having a sewing department, and thus drawing in the country girls, while at the same time requiring them to take academic work.

Woodcock Academy, Ahtanum, Washington.

This home missionary school has been vigorously conducted by its principal, Rev. Rosine M. Edwards, daughter of Rev. Jonathan Edwards, of Idaho. Four salaried instructors have had charge of forty-seven students, of whom twenty-nine have been in academic classes and eight are church members. The assets foot up $12,100. There is a mortgage upon the property of $2,500, held by Whitman College, which is specially interested in the continuance of the school as one of its feeders. The principal reports that during the year the school has made a decided advance toward the development of the school spirit and the broadening of the school life. The former was helped by athletics, colors, etc., and by more attention to class organization. The latter was much helped by the special features of the year. Two of these were lectures by the pastor and a physician of North Yakima; and special treats were lectures by the president and the professor of oratory from Whitman College. There were concerts, cantatas, term exercises, and declamation contests by the students. The special advantages offered in business, arithmetic, and bookkeeping attracted a number of young men for the winter term who had to leave when the spring work began. They promised to return with others next year. The principal visits places in the county, supplying on Sundays and extending acquaintance. The finest Commencement exercises ever given by the academy have been successfully carried through.

UTAH.

The work in this part of our country has been prosecuted with unusual vigor during the past year. Attention is called to the able report of Professor Smith in regard to the Salt Lake Training School for Teachers and Gordon Academy, and to that of Prin. S. H. Goodwin, setting forth the work of Procter Academy, which have been given on preceding pages.

Utah contains some of the most desolate and some of the most beautiful regions of the United States. They are desolate where no water comes; they are beautiful where the streams are abundant. So it is in the life of the people. The strong, ambitious church, hostile to other religious life, sustained by the exacting tithe, cherishing errors like polygamy in heart even if compelled to give them up in practice, represents the threatening side. But the great amount of good among the people at large; their thrift and enterprise; their increasing desire for education; their ambition to stand well in the nation; and, on the part of many, a conscientious desire to serve God and a strong religious zeal which holds great possibilities — these things make Utah as full of promise as her own bright green fields. The institution which is the key to all our plants is that at Salt Lake City, where Gordon Academy and the Training School for Teachers are united. From this center we want to send teachers into the public schools themselves. By pouring in the light of knowledge founded upon Christian principles, we aim to help Utah to the thing which the best self of Utah most wants: namely, good teaching. So shall Utah and the regions affected by Mormon influence smile with a promise more hopeful of the best products of American life than that with which even her fields seem to welcome those who visit them, as the streams flow upon them from the snow-clad hills.

The efficiency of the smaller schools has been enhanced by the able superintendency of Professor Smith, who has not only conducted the Salt Lake school with vigor, but has also traveled about among the other points, has held institutes, has reported the doings of the several schools from time to time in the Hammond Hall Educator, and has materially increased the spirit of unity and courage among the teachers. Brief notes are here given in regard to the several schools.

Bountiful.

Miss Eugenia Munger works alone at this point near Salt Lake. The town is densely Mormon. There is much prejudice against the school, yet the pupils are from Mormon families, except where their parents have abandoned that faith without much publication of the fact. Our school is called "The Liberal School." It is indeed liberal in that it is conducted in a spirit of friendliness for all the higher interests of the town. It has forty pupils, and thus supplements the public schools. These are full of bright pupils, in a community where the young people are rapidly developing and need Christian leaven.

Heber.

Misses Jessamine and Ethel Shepherd, sisters, are conducting a school with about fifty pupils, all of whom are from Mormon families. The enrollment varies with the seasons. The town is absolutely Mormon, and yet our school is held in favor. The public schools, under Mormon control, are good and their teachers are friendly in their attitude toward our own. We reach about twenty families. Family life at Heber is, as a rule, of little help to the children. Lessons in home-making are given in our lower grades. The school greatly needs reading material—a good library for children's use.

Coalville.

In this distinctively Mormon town the public schools are well equipped and vigorously managed. The importance of our school, conducted by the Rev. A. C. Warner and Miss Etta Shepherd, is that it keeps up a high standard, and makes sectarianism in the public schools difficult or impossible. We reach twenty families or more, and sixty children, mostly of people engaged in the mines, and of whom three-fourths are Mormons. Mr. Warner's work is that of pastor, teacher, citizen. His family life is itself a power for good. An intelligent lady living at Echo, where Mr. Warner conducts a preaching station, who has closely studied the situation for fifteen years, sees great changes for good in the whole Utah situation. Our school greatly requires a library and other facilities. Pupils from Coalville are hoped for at Gordon Academy.

Lehi.

This is another intensely Mormon center, so much so that the public schools are referred to by Mormons as "our schools." The largest Mormon Sunday school in the state, numbering 1,200, is at this point, wherein distinctively Mormon theology is taught, rather than points of ethical conduct. Our Lehi Academy is conducted by the Rev. Ludwig Thompson and Mrs. Walter Harling. It reaches twenty-five families, of which ten per cent. are Gentile and the rest Mormon. The attendance is about sixty, which is double that of last year. Mr. Thompson aims to build up the church, and preaches to a congregation, as yet unorganized, of from twelve to fifteen. This hoped for church work rests upon the school work. There is a great lack of reading material adapted to children. There is no kindergarten in town, with a great opportunity for one.

In general attention should be called to the improvement in the material condition of all of our schools. At Coalville repairs to the extent of $300 have been put upon the school building. At each of the other schools something has been done for the increase of physical comfort. Expenditure has been authorized for next year, which will still further equip our schools for work. The chief influence of this effort is in the way of the object lesson. Utah is rapidly developing a good public school system. Our work is to uplift and idealize standards and methods of work by the example and influence of our teachers and by the effects which they accomplish. It should be remarked, also, that the situation is entirely different from that at the commencement of the work of the New West Education Commission. That work was begun at a time when the enmity of the Mormons toward the United States and the Christian churches of the land was most bitter. Brigham Young was in his power. The teachers who first took charge of our free Christian schools incurred great risk of persecution. Little by little they made headway. More and more, also, the influence of the great nation has been felt upon this western side of the mountain barrier. Isolation is no longer possible. A change is being increasingly wrought.

Now Utah is wide open for good teaching, and in Salt Lake City the public schools are crowded with children from Mormon families, although the percentage of Gentile to Mormon teachers in that city is ninety per cent. in the high school, and sixty per cent. in the schools of lower grade. One of our teachers has truly said that the remedy for such a situation is a double one: the introduction of health from without by a good class of immigrants, and the building up of health from within by Christian education of an American type. Just this last is what the Education Society is endeavoring to do.

NEW MEXICO.

In New Mexico are upwards of 100,000 of the descendants of Indian and Spaniard, who came together 350 years ago. What the Mexicans were in the past in home and life they are today. Their adobe (sun-dried mud brick) houses have not changed. Their priests have not led them upward. Their need of Christian mission schools appears in these facts: in the poverty, prejudice, and backward condition of the people, a strange sight in our modern American life; in the poor quality of such schools as they have; in the hopelessness of uplifting homes and of establishing churches, save through the children and their schools; in the evils which must come to society and to government, unless the people are trained on the principles of a true Christian Americanism.

But nothing is impossible to God and the children. By reaching the children Christian education can reach the home and the community. Therefore, into these Mexican towns and villages our brave teachers go, two by two. The places where we have schools at present are six: Atrisco, Barelás (on the edge of Albuquerque), Cubero, Cabezón, San Mateo, San Rafael. In these towns our teachers live among the people, teach the children the English language, the Bible, the simple lessons with which all education begins; they teach the boys to work, the girls to sew, the parents to make home; and all of them to sing "My Country, 'tis of Thee," of the nation; and "My Faith Looks Up to Thee," of the Lord Jesus Christ.

The great need is to establish more schools, and to place in the center of them a larger boarding school, where the brightest of the children can be trained in the industrial arts, and where their minds and character may be more thoroughly disciplined for the blessed work of leading their own people into the light, and for the grand result of securing for the nation a commonwealth which shall stand for all that is best in the life of the American people.

Barelas.

Perhaps the most striking success of the year has been achieved at Barelas, where our school has been in charge of Miss Louise S. Winston. Owing to the hostile pressure of Catholic influence and the disposition to boycott the children attending our school, together with the erection of the public Catholic school hard by our own, we were compelled to change our quarters. This step was taken largely because of the judgment and faith of Miss Winston. The old building was sold and enough money was realized to purchase buildings adequate for residence and school purposes in another part of the town, called Lower Barelas, and to fit the new buildings up for their intended uses. Miss Winston, accompanied by her mother, moved her home to the new quarters. The work was successful. The number of pupils equaled that received at the old place. While it was supposed at first that Miss Winston could teach the few who might come, it turned out that she needed assistance, and supplementary teaching was provided for the crowded months. This will need to be done next year. Miss Winston has won the hearts of the people, and both parents and children have confidence in her as friend, as well as teacher. Miss Winston is supported by the Woman's Massachusetts Home Missionary Association. Her conduct in residing among the people has the added admirable quality of being entirely voluntary and for the sake of the cause, and not a matter made necessary by circumstances. Former teachers have lived in more agreeable quarters in Albuquerque.

Atrisco.

The work at this school has also been gratifyingly successful. It has been conducted for years by Miss Ida L. Frost, regarded by common consent as one of the best teachers the New Mexico work has ever had. Her place has been taken by her assistant, Miss Retta Moore, who has risen to the occasion and magnified her office. She herself has been assisted by Miss Flora Dudley, who has entered into the work and taken up the study of the language with great enthusiasm. Miss Dudley is sustained by the Massachusetts ladies, and Miss Moore by those of Connecticut and by the Education Society jointly. A wagon was provided for these teachers, and has enabled them to traverse comfortably the four miles between their point of work and the Albuquerque post office and stores. Much of the work of these teachers has been in visitation. They lend a listening ear to the pathetic stories of sickness and cheerlessness in the several homes. The character of the work done may be illustrated by the family with which our teachers live. Ten years ago the father was a drinking man and their home was far from happy ; now they are all, except the youngest child, members of our little church, with the children in school, and are trying as best they know to be Christians. The mother says, "I do thank God for this school ; it has made such a change in my family."

Cubero.

The event in connection with the work of Mrs. Collings and her daughter at Cubero has been the thorough repairing of their dwelling house. Three hundred dollars have been granted by the joint action of the ladies of Illinois and the Education Society. The school building was put in order last year. The dwelling house has now been completed to match, and the teachers are very comfortable. Little by little provision has been made in the way of blackboard, tables, little chairs, pictures, and other furniture. More room, also, has been obtained. More school work has been possible. The whole building is so much warmer, that, while the winter has been severe and the added room would seem to require more fire, yet the bill for fuel has been much less. The work of this school is preëminently the leavening influence of an object lesson. The whole attitude of the town toward our teachers has changed. The state of family life has improved. While some of the families have yet to learn that cleanliness is next to godliness, the habits of others show a marvelous transformation. Real quarreling among the children at school now is as rare as was real harmony when our teachers first knew them. Since the first of January the Sunday school has also steadily increased, and attentive listeners have been present there and at the services held by the missionary, Rev. J. H. Heald.

Cabazon.

There is no point more truly mission ground in the United States than that held by Miss Elizabeth Borden and her brave mother, at Cabazon, a town sixty-five miles northwest from Albuquerque, and equally far from the railroad. So large has been the attendance that supplementary teaching has been provided by the Society. In spite of all the efforts of the priest, the people in this village know who their friends are, and cannot be induced to withdraw their children from our school, whatever pressure is brought to bear. The Society now owns the real estate on which the dwelling house and schoolhouse stand. The schoolhouse is a new building, built by money contributed from the general treasury. The salary of Miss Borden has been paid by the New Hampshire ladies. Two interesting circumstances may be noted. A Sunday-school class of boys in the Second Congregational Church, Concord, N. H., gave to the school a large flag; and the Saturday after it arrived ten large schoolboys put up the staff. It was indeed a marked event to see the national colors floating over these un-American people, and to hear the cheers of the boys as national feelings stirred their breasts. The other event, which came near being a disaster, was the passing of a tornado over the town, which tore off the roof of the schoolhouse. Fortunately, the storm had been observed in time to dismiss the scholars, and for the teachers to escape to a safe place. Miss Borden and her mother will return to their post next year.

San Mateo.

Miss Lamson and Miss Sherwin, whose work, together with the entire expense of the school, has been sustained by the New York ladies, have had a notable year. They have continued their beneficent work of teaching, visiting, and healing, as in the past. The school has been more largely attended than ever. Every man, woman, and child in the place has known well that these brave women were among them to bless them, and in imitation of Him who went about doing good. Two circumstances should be mentioned: the purchase of the horse, "Homer," and the digging of a well. After much investigation, a capital animal was purchased with money subscribed at the New York State Convention a year ago. By this means, the teachers are able to go out to the people. The digging of the well by the schoolhouse, with the remarkable discovery of an abundant vein of the best water, suggests a story not unlike the famous experience of John G. Paton, and the well that came in answer to prayer. By means of this well the people have been brought to the school. Thus a double bond has been provided. Miss Lamson has, during the year, addressed the ladies of the East, in connection with their work, both in Boston and New York. The one dominant idea in all that she said, as it is in all that she does, is to help her people, whom she loves, in whom she believes, and for whom she is freely giving the entire strength and devotion of her best years. In this beautiful work she has in Miss Sherwin a kindred spirit and an enthusiastic helper.

San Rafael.

At San Rafael, Miss DeBusk, assisted by Miss Grace Smith, has continued their beautiful and successful work. In one of her familiar letters to the Ohio Union, which sustains her, Miss DeBusk has drawn an interesting picture of schoolroom life, the filing in of the scholars at nine o'clock, the singing of Spanish hymns, translations from the English, of which two of the most popular are, "Jesus is calling," and "The Home over there"; then follow responsive readings from the Spanish Bibles, prayer, the roll-call, from the list of sonorous Spanish names, and the departure of the little ones to their room. Great pleasure was given at Christmas by a large box from the Young Women's Christian Association of Colorado College. The children leave school at such an early age that they have no idea of any but a very elementary education. The moral effect of the school also is largely neutralized by home life. Both Miss DeBusk and Miss Smith put in their plea for the upbuilding of an industrial or boarding school for that part of New Mexico. Miss DeBusk makes evident the need of building up such a home school, where select young Mexican people can be thoroughly trained in all that pertains to life and character, when she writes as follows: "There is so much of evil in all their surrounding influences, that these children of ours, although we know that some of them do long for better things, must inevitably sink back into the old life when they leave school, and become the drunkards and fanatics that their fathers are. It seems tragic to you to contemplate as an abstraction, but it is terrible to us who live among them and love them,— who have taught these little ones, and know that in them there are great possibilities. This is why we so long to be able to change their conditions, and why we clamor so insistently for the establishment of a boarding school to carry out the work in which, with our present limitations, we can only make a beginning. By this means the children could be given Christian surroundings, for a while at least, and have a bare chance to climb to a higher life. They have not now, when every tradition, every influence, every tendency about them, holds their characters, made weak by all the centuries of their past history, in the thralldom that has bound their people so long."

REPORT OF THEODORE CLIFTON, D. D., Western Field Secretary.

Almost the entire year has been given to special tasks to relieve distressed institutions. In this way seven of our schools in the Interior have been visited, some of them more than once, and such help rendered in each case as the situation demanded. The institutions thus visited and helped during the year are Fairmount College at Wichita, Kansas; the German-English School at Wilton Junction, Iowa; Benzonía Academy, Michigan; Eureka Academy, Kansas; Endeavor Academy, Wisconsin; and Chadron and Gates Academies, Nebraska. The financial aggregate of this work in cash, good pledges, and interest-bearing notes is $32,230, distributed as follows: For Fairmount College, subscriptions on endowment, $15,420; for the German-English School at Wilton Junction, subscriptions and cash on current expenses, $2,217; for Benzonía Academy on current expenses, $1,025; for Eureka Academy, interest-bearing notes and cash on endowment, $8,370; for Endeavor Academy, for new building and other purposes, $1,246; for Chadron Academy on arrearages, $845; for Gates Academy, on old debt, $1,961; and for the Wisconsin academies, to be distributed among them, $1,146. Of this amount, $13,883, from 221 contributors, have been collected and forwarded, the balance to be reported as collected.

The above is by no means a complete statement of the income from the Western field, nor yet of all personal subscriptions for special objects. Besides church collections, none of which are here included, smaller sums have been procured from individuals for other institutions, such as the Southern Collegiate Institute at Albion, Ill., Hull Academy in Iowa, and Ward Academy in South Dakota. The records in the Western office, since the new arrangement requiring all funds as far as possible to be sent direct to the Boston treasury, do not furnish sufficient data for a financial statement; and so, for a complete record of Western receipts, reference must be had to the Society's tabulated report.

This special work for institutions, together with the federation of institutions by states, which preëmpts all gifts save those otherwise specified by donors, has of necessity interfered with the general fund of the Society. Yet the money thus contributed by the Society has accomplished far more for the institutions assisted than if voted from the general treasury. The money given has been raised largely upon the ground and in the immediate vicinity of the schools, thus developing a local constituency and encouraging self-support; new friends and supporters have been gained, and old ones hitherto alienated from the institutions have been won back again; many have thus been induced to give that otherwise could not have been reached; the cause of Christian education, both by public address and in personal conversation, has been emphasized and a new enthusiasm aroused; and young people have been fired with an ambition for a higher education under the influences of Christian schools. Indeed, it is doubtful if the money raised, vital as it is, has been a more valuable part of the Society's work in the West than some of these incidental results.

The work of the Society for institutions in these special ways has been of great benefit to the colleges and academies aided. Without such help the prospective endowment of $100,000 for Fairmount College, now so near a happy realization, would have been still afar off; notwithstanding the heroic efforts and generous giving of others, it is doubtful if the big debt of $20,000 on Gates Academy would yet have been canceled; the new building for Endeavor Academy, now under roof, though so much needed, could not have been safely and wisely undertaken; and Chadron Academy, as well as the other academies named in this report, would have been still in the Slough of Despond because of old debts and unpaid bills. But as it is all the schools have made progress and all are in better condition, with a more hopeful outlook than a year ago.

More than half of the entire receipts from the Western field, and more than two-thirds of the receipts from churches and individuals, have been secured by direct appeal to the churches in public addresses and by personal calls. Personal letters do not bring money, much less do circular letters. Literature only imparts information; it does not directly secure funds. Nor do the Western churches, except a comparative few whose names ought to be enrolled on a scroll of honor, ordinarily volunteer annual offerings for the Education Society. The largest results in this direction, and, indeed, in all directions, must be attained by intelligent, official presentation of the cause.

In the work of the year, ninety-two addresses have been delivered — one at a college commencement, five to students, six at state associations, and the others before churches appealing for funds. Individual contributors to the number of 495, in seven different states, more than fifty per cent. of whom have responded favorably, have been interviewed to interest them in the Society's work and to secure gifts of money. But for various reasons subscriptions have averaged small, ranging from $1,000 down to $1.00. The large sums from wealthy givers are secured directly by the larger colleges; the great majority of Western givers to the Education Society and its institutions are in moderate circumstances, and so cannot make large offerings; and givers generally will not contribute large sums, either to pay old debts or to meet the current expenses of our smaller and more obscure missionary institutions. But, in spite of all, the Society during the past year, as heretofore, has done a good work in the West, and prospects at the opening of the new fiscal year are favorable for still better results in the year to come.

WORK OF THE WOMAN'S HOME MISSIONARY ORGANIZATIONS THROUGH THE EDUCATION SOCIETY.

The coöperative aid given to the work of this Society by these organizations has been as notable, as generous, and as effective as in preceding years. Special recognition has been given to the Secretary of this Society, who has during the year addressed several of the state bodies, and in particular enjoyed a speaking trip for two weeks in Illinois under the auspices of the Ladies' Home Missionary Union of that state. Again does the Woman's Home Missionary Association of Massachusetts and Rhode Island lead in the total of gifts, contributing as before to the student aid department, Rollins College, Rogers Academy, the German-English School in Iowa; and paying the salaries of Miss Peek at Gordon Academy, Mrs. Harling at Lehi, Miss Shepherd at Heber, Miss Munger at Bountiful, Miss Dudley at Atrisco, and Miss Winston at Barelás. The New York ladies, besides aiding the Bethlehem Bohemian Training School, pay the entire cost of the San Mateo Mission. As in the past, the Illinois ladies stand loyally by the work of Mrs. Collings and Miss Laura Collings at Cubero, besides helping at Coalville, Utah, the German-English School at Wilton, and the Bethlehem School at Cleveland. The Vermont ladies have continued their gifts to Rollins College and to Principal Thompsen at Lehi Academy. The Connecticut ladies have given to Bethlehem School and to Kingfisher Academy, and have paid a part of Miss Moore's salary at Atrisco. The Michigan ladies have contributed to Heber, Utah; the ladies of Minnesota and South Dakota have given to the Atrisco Mission. The Ohio ladies have paid Miss DeBusk's salary at San Rafael; and the unions of Iowa and Colorado have given the salary of Miss Smith of the same school, whose place will be taken next year by

Mrs. J. H. Heald, the wife of our home missionary. The New Hampshire Female Cent Institution, eldest of the sisterhood, has sustained Miss Borden at Cabezon, and the New Jersey ladies have turned their attention to Coalville, Utah. Gifts have come from other unions. Meanwhile, as the ladies have aided the Society, so the Society has "helped those women." Twice, yearly, the familiar letters to the unions have been put out; interestingly written and aptly illustrated. Where a union does not undertake an entire salary, the Society makes good the deficit. It is earnestly desired that no such lack be permitted. This work for children and homes in Utah and New Mexico is so peculiarly characteristic of Christian motherhood that we invoke even larger gifts. For what has been done the Society is profoundly grateful. It is believed that both Utah and New Mexico present in a peculiar degree opportunities for expanding and aggressive work.

NECROLOGY.

Again has a year passed away, and no one directly engaged in the active work of the Society has died. It is but fitting, however, that mention should be made of a man to whose wisdom and energy the inception and remarkable history of one of the great component parts of the Society are due. It was the Rev. Charles R. Bliss, who, leaving his Wakefield pastorate to go to Colorado to regain health, there studied and thence began the work of planting academies and mission schools in Utah and New Mexico. The importance of pushing this enterprise led to the organization of the New West Education Commission, which was incorporated at Chicago in 1879. Mr. Bliss was its first and only secretary. He achieved remarkable success. The larger effect of his labors appears in the rise and growth of provision for popular education. The special Christian work begun by him, however, is still being vigorously carried on. For a year previous to his death Mr. Bliss had not been well. He passed away February 26, 1901, having been anticipated in his departure to a better world by his beloved wife, Mrs. Mary F. Bliss, who died only a week before him.

Besides the honored and cherished names of Rev. and Mrs. Bliss, our list of deceased members will be lengthened by those of the following revered and lamented brethren: Eleazer Boynton, Esq.; E. H. Byington, D.D.; E. P. Goodwin, D.D.; and E. B. Webb, D.D.

CONSTITUTION.

COMMONWEALTH OF MASSACHUSETTS.

IN THE YEAR ONE THOUSAND EIGHT HUNDRED AND NINETY-FOUR.

AN ACT

TO CHANGE THE NAME OF THE AMERICAN EDUCATION SOCIETY.

Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives in General Court assembled, and by the authority of the same, as follows :

SECTION 1. The name of the American Education Society is hereby changed to the Congregational Education Society.

SECT. 2. All devices, bequests, conveyances, and gifts heretofore or hereafter made to said corporation by either of said names, or by the name of the American College and Education Society, shall vest in said Congregational Education Society.

SECT. 3. This act shall be void unless the same shall be accepted by said corporation at a meeting thereof called for that purpose, or at its annual meeting held next after the passage of this act.

[Approved March 9, 1894.]

ARTICLE I. This Society shall be called THE CONGREGATIONAL EDUCATION SOCIETY.

ART. II. The object of the Society is the promotion of Christian Education by assisting needy young men of piety and ability in acquiring an education for the gospel ministry; by aiding theological and collegiate institutions, academies, and other schools in which children and youth are trained under Christian teachers; and by the employment of any kindred agencies which may be deemed desirable.

ART. III. The members of the Society shall be LIFE members, ANNUAL members, and HONORARY members. All present Corporate members of the Congregational Education Society and of the New West Education Commission shall be Life members of this Society. Any Congregational church which has within the year contributed to the funds of the Society may appoint one delegate to the annual meeting of the Society, and such delegates duly attested by credentials shall be members of the Society for the year for which they were appointed.

The Society shall at each annual meeting elect Life members in such numbers as shall cause the whole number of Life members to approximate but not exceed two hundred.

Any person on whose behalf fifty dollars shall be paid to the Society, accompanied with the request for Honorary membership, shall be an Honorary member for life; and all present Honorary members of the Congregational Education Society and Life members of the New West Education Commission shall be Honorary members of this Society.

ART. IV. The annual meeting of the Society shall be on the second Wednesday in June, unless otherwise voted by the Directors. All Life members who shall be present, and all Annual members bringing proper credentials, shall be entitled to vote. No less than twelve shall constitute a quorum at every meeting of the Society.

Special meetings shall be called by the Secretary at the written request of five voting members; and of any such meeting notice shall be given, with mention of the time, place, and object of the same, by publication in two consecutive numbers of religious papers representing the Congregational denomination, one of these papers being published in Boston, the other in Chicago.

ART. V. The officers of the Society shall be a President, a Vice-President, a Secretary or Secretaries, a Treasurer, an Auditor, and eighteen Directors, of whom ten at least shall be residents of Boston and vicinity, and six at least residents of Chicago and vicinity. All of the foregoing officers shall be chosen by ballot, and the election shall be annual, except as hereinafter provided. They shall hold office until others are chosen in their places. At the first election, held under the provisions of this constitution, six Directors shall be chosen for one year, six for two years, and six for three years; and thereafter all elections of Directors shall be for the term of three years, except in the filling of vacancies in terms of office not completed.

The President and Vice-President shall perform the duties usually assigned to such officers. They are constituted members ex officio of the Board of Directors. They shall sign, execute, acknowledge, and deliver in the name of and in behalf of the Society any and all deeds or any other conveyances or instruments in writing relating to any real estate owned by the Society, to such parties as the Directors by their vote shall authorize.

The Secretary or Secretaries shall have charge of the correspondence; shall keep the records of the meetings of the Society and of the Directors; shall make known, by personal presentation, correspondence and otherwise, to State and local associations and conferences, to churches and individuals, the objects and claims of the Society; shall notify all meetings of the Society and of the Board of Directors; shall obtain the fullest possible information respecting all applicants for aid, whether students or institutions; shall furnish for the presiding officer at each meeting a docket of the matters to be considered; and shall prepare an annual report of the work of the Society, and submit the same to the Directors before the annual meeting.

The Treasurer shall have charge of the funds intrusted to the Society and keep an accurate account of the same, showing from what sources they have come, for what purposes they have been given, and where they are deposited, or in what securities invested. His books shall always be open to the examination of any Director or member of the Society. He shall give bonds for the faithful discharge of his duties, with such sureties as shall be satisfactory to the Directors, and shall make no investment of the Society's funds without their approval. At each regular meeting of the Directors he shall give a report of the state of the treasury, including a list of all donations received and payments made since the last meeting; and at the annual meeting of the Society he shall present a written and audited report of the receipts and disbursements of the year, the condition of the treasury, and the amount and form of the Society's investments.

The Auditor shall audit all accounts of the Treasurer, and examine the invested funds of the Society, and give to the Directors his certificate therefor in writing.

The Board of Directors shall have charge of all affairs and manage all business of the Society concerning which no other provision is made. They shall appoint committees to examine and recommend students for assistance, and shall take such action upon these recommendations as they may deem wise. They shall determine what institutions, academies, or schools of any kind shall be aided or maintained, and shall grant them money, as the state of the treasury may permit. They may by vote authorize the sale or conveyance of any real estate the Society may own, to such person or persons and upon such terms as they may determine. Such conveyances to be signed, executed, acknowledged, and delivered in the name of and in behalf of the Society by the President or Vice-President as hereinbefore provided. As soon as practicable, after the annual meeting of the Society, the Board shall meet for organization and for the election, from their own number, of a Finance Committee and such other committees as they may see fit to appoint. They shall also have power to appoint District or Field Secretaries, or establish any agency which they may consider necessary, and shall have power to fill, until the next annual meeting, any vacancy in their own number or in any office of the Society. The Board of Directors shall present a report of the work of the Society at each annual meeting.

ART. VI. The Directors shall hold regular meetings on the second Monday of each month, except that of August. Special meetings shall be called at the written request of three Directors, by giving four days' notice, by letter, to each member of the Board, stating the time, place, and object of the meeting. Seven Directors shall constitute a quorum. The meetings of the Board shall ordinarily be held in Boston, but one meeting at least in each year shall be held in Chicago. All meetings shall be held in the office of the Society, either at Boston or Chicago, unless otherwise ordered.

The Western members of the Board, that is, members residing west of the State of New York, shall hold stated meetings at such times as they may appoint; and they may, whenever they see fit, designate one of their number to attend any meeting to be held in Boston, and his traveling expenses may be paid by the Society; and the Eastern members shall have the right, in like manner and upon the same terms, to designate two of their number to attend any meeting to be held in Chicago.

The Western members of the Board, while having part in all the affairs of the Society, shall be particularly charged with the duty of becoming acquainted with the condition of academies and lower schools aided by the Society, and with the wants of the field in that relation. They will be expected to give counsel upon the appropriation of money for such academies and schools, and they shall, once at least each year, transmit to the Board at Boston a summary statement of the condition and requirements of the work of the Society, as viewed by them, and this statement shall be a special topic of consideration at the first meeting of the Board after its reception.

No action shall be taken at a meeting held in either section of the country in respect to which the judgment of the members resident in the other section is specially needed, unless seasonable notice shall have been given that such action is contemplated.

A full and attested copy of the record of each meeting held in Boston shall be immediately forwarded to Chicago, and shall be either filed or transcribed in such a manner as to form a permanent record at Chicago; and an attested record of the doings of each meeting of the Board held at Chicago shall be entered upon the permanent record of the Board in Boston. A summary statement of the business done at each meeting of the Western members of the Board shall also be transmitted to Boston.

Any Eastern Director who shall be absent from one-half of the stated meetings of the Board held during any one year at Boston, or any Western Director who shall be absent from one-half of the stated meetings held during any one year at Chicago, including the meetings of the Board and of the Western section of the Board, unless excused for such absence for adequate reason by the Board or its Western section, as the case may be, shall be deemed to have vacated his position as Director, and the vacancy thus created shall be filled by the election of some other person at the next annual meeting of the Society.

ART. VII. This Constitution may be changed only by a vote of two-thirds of the members present and entitled to vote at the meeting of the Society duly called, notice of the proposed change being given in the call of the meeting at which action is to be taken.

BY-LAWS.

ADOPTED DECEMBER 18, 1899.

STUDENTS.

Applications for scholarships granted by this Society to students for the ministry are approved under the following rules and conditions:

SECTION 1. The Society grants scholarships to men who actually need financial assistance, provided that they show the requisite merit and promise. Therefore, the concealment of sufficient income already possessed, extravagance, use of tobacco, and all like abuses of the gift, are to be regarded as flagrant breaches of personal honor, as well as an inexcusable deprivation of other men of the needed aid.

To receive a grant a student in college must have reached the grade of sophomore, and must attain a rank equivalent to seventy-five per cent. on the scale of one hundred in scholarship. A student in a theological seminary must be a graduate of some college of good standing. Consideration of exceptional cases shall be given, and provided for in the form of application, with due regard for the regulations of the Society.

It is optional with the student whether the grant be a loan or a gift outright; but in the latter case it should be considered as a loan of honor; to be repaid in good-will, and, if possible, in money. If taken as a loan, a student shall forward his note for the amount. Such notes, if paid within three years after entering the ministry, shall bear no interest, but from that time they shall carry interest at four per cent.

SECT. 2. The Board of Directors shall appoint suitable committees, which shall consist of three persons each, at different institutions throughout the country, to examine and recommend candidates for the scholarships of the Society. It shall be the duty of a committee to make careful inquiry concerning an applicant's testimonials, his religious character, his motives for seeking the ministry, his abilities and attainments, his need of pecuniary aid, and his willingness to conform to the rules of the Society. If the committee decides to recommend him they shall direct him to state in the form of application his name, age, residence, place of education, church membership, need of assistance, and other facts which are inquired of, or which they deem important. They shall also make careful examination from time to time as to the development and proficiency of each student receiving a scholarship from the Society through their recommendation; shall advise the renewal of such a grant, or not, as they deem wise; and shall assume responsibility, by their signature to his application, to do all in their power to secure the fulfillment of the conditions under which the scholarships of the Society are given.

SECT. 3. Any student applying for assistance must appear before the committee, having this matter in charge, for examination; must fill out the answers to the questions asked in the application; must subscribe to the Agreement, Declaration, and Promise, and thus assent to the conditions therein stated. If there is no regular examining committee in the institution he is attending, the Secretary of the Society may be notified of his wish for assistance and a special committee can be appointed to examine him.

SECT. 4. Before receiving a grant the candidate shall subscribe before witness to the following obligation, as part of the form of application by which he seeks a scholarship:

"I hereby accept the conditions above recited, and affirm that I am in need of financial assistance in order to the effective prosecution of theological study. I declare it to be my intention to devote my life to the Christian ministry and to take a full course of theological training. I therefore apply to the Congregational Education Society for a scholarship; and I promise, that if I hereafter forego my present purpose, I will, within three years after the date of the latest payment, and unless specially excepted by the Directors for good reasons shown, repay to the Society the whole amount of money received, with four per cent. interest on the same from the time of receiving it. I furthermore agree that I will, after entering the ministry, exert my personal and official influence to advance the interests of the Society."

Signed:..... (Seal)

Witness.....

SECT. 5. The income which shall provide for the payment of scholarships shall be derived from the interest upon invested funds given for this purpose; and from the gifts of the churches and of special friends for the same object. The amount of a scholarship shall be fifty dollars for one year; the renewal of which may be secured by a regular annual application if approved; but for not more than six consecutive years. A gift of one thousand dollars ($1,000), constituting a permanent fund, of which the interest alone shall be used, shall bear the name of the donor, or such name as he may assign. The income of such a fund shall be at once and perpetually applied in payment of a scholarship; and shall thus go to aid a continuous succession of men into the work of the ministry. Such a donor may name a student as the recipient of such a scholarship, provided his application is duly made and approved according to the regulations of the Society. The Society will act as the almoner for any benevolent individuals who desire to assist worthy young men to prepare for the ministry or to procure a Christian education, and will take charge of any funds intrusted to it for this purpose, applying them for the use of the objects and persons designated.

INSTITUTIONS.

SECT. 6. The Society will aid Colleges, Academies, training and Mission Schools, with the special purpose of lending them such a degree of assistance as will promote their development most rapidly and bring them at the earliest period to a condition of self-support.

COLLEGES.

SECT. 7. No college can be placed upon the Society's list until it has presented to the Directors a copy of its act of incorporation and of its by-laws; the names of its Trustees and officers and the number of its students; and all documents and information necessary to satisfy the Directors in regard to its permanency and success, its relation to the State and the Congregational churches thereof, and its need of the assistance sought. It must be under the control of a self-perpetuating Board of Trustees, a majority of whom shall always be members in good and regular standing in Congregational churches.

Its application must be made by a formal vote of its Board of Trustees, and no such application can be approved by the Society so long as it has upon its list another college in the same State. Its Trustees must also accept the agreement with the Society which is appended to these by-laws, and furnish a copy of the same duly signed and sealed. No college can be adopted until it has a freshman class of at least four students, and all money received from the Society (except such as may have been designated by the donor for some other use) shall be applied by the institution to the payment of salaries, to the purchase of books or apparatus, or to the permanent endowment of chairs of instruction.

ACADEMIES AND MISSION SCHOOLS.

SECT. 8. The academies and other schools aided fall naturally into two classes — those which have been already incorporated and organized, and those established in localities where it might not be feasible to create at once local corporations.

In order that an institution of the first class may be enrolled upon the Society's list it must be legally chartered under a self-perpetuating Board of Trustees, a majority of whom shall always be members in good and regular standing of Congregational churches, and must have secured, in fee simple and unencumbered, sufficient grounds for building sites and campus, and assets, in buildings or in money, or in both, to the amount of ten thousand dollars. It must be indorsed by the State association or conference of Congregational churches, and by the local association or conference within the bounds of whose territory it is located; and it must annually report to the State association or conference, and receive the continued approval of the same, so long as it receives aid from the Society. It must have such a number of students and such evidence of permanency as shall be satisfactory to the Directors; must give thorough preparation for college, and maintain the characteristics of a vitally Christian school. Its principal shall always be a Christian man, and special attention shall be given to the study of the Bible and the development of Christian character. All money received from the Society must be used in the payment of the salary of the principal or teachers, and no part of it shall ever be applied to the payment of debts for other things without the consent of the Directors. No mortgage shall at any time be put upon the property of the institution except that, before the first appropriation is made, the Trustees shall execute in favor of the Congregational Education Society a trust mortgage upon its entire property for the repayment of all money at any time received through said Society in case the said institution shall at any time or to any extent disregard the aforesaid terms and provisions.

SECT. 9. In order to secure the early occupation of promising fields, and also to exert a more direct influence through the agency of Christian education in fields not yet provided with good common schools, this Society shall have the power to establish and temporarily maintain academies, training, and other schools in localities where it would not be possible or advisable to create local corporations. These it may own, manage, and control at its discretion, with the ultimate purpose of placing them under the care of self-perpetuating Boards of Trustees or of disposing of them as the best interests of Christian education may seem to demand.

SECT. 10. It shall be the duty of the president or principal of each institution that receives aid from the Society to report to the same at least annually the financial condition of the institution, its number of students, and all such facts in regard to its prosperity as it may be desirable for the Society to know.

SECT. 11. These by-laws may be amended at any regular meeting of the Board of Directors, notice of the proposed amendment having been given in the call of the meeting at which action is to be taken.

FORM OF AGREEMENT BETWEEN THE SOCIETY AND INSTITUTIONS RECEIVING AID.

The.....in consideration of one dollar to them in hand paid by the CONGREGATIONAL EDUCATION SOCIETY, and other good and valuable considerations them thereunto moving, do for themselves and their successors hereby covenant and agree with the Congregational Education Society and their successors, that in the event that the saidshall cease to be distinctively a Christian institution; or shall permanently cease to provide.....instruction for students; or shall relinquish or lose its franchise as an independent corporation by grant, sale, merger, or in any other way; or shall by any contract, lease, trust-deed, or in any other way convey, transfer, grant, or assign its property to any other or differently chartered institution, or shall in the appointment of its trustees or corporators, or in their management of its concerns become subject to political or ecclesiastical control, or shall in any way be diverted from the policy of the said Congregational Education Society, as at present defined in its charter and by-laws; or shall divert any donation of money or other property made through the said Congregational Education Society from the special use to which the donor or donors thereof may have designated or limited it; then all the moneys and other property which shall have been appropriated and paid or delivered to the said.....by the said Congregational Education Society, shall thereupon revert to the said Congregational Education Society; and they, the said.....do hereby covenant and agree for themselves and their successors that they will forthwith well and truly pay, grant, convey, turn over, and transfer the same, or cause the same to be paid, granted, conveyed, turned over, and transferred to the said Congregational Education Society, or the value of any of the same that cannot be identified and so conveyed, turned over, and transferred, and also that they will account for and return, pay, convey, turn over, and transfer to the said Congregational Education Society any and all funds or property which shall have been diverted from the purposes for which it may have been donated, as designated by the donor or donors thereof; or if for any reason the specific property donated or any portion thereof cannot be identified and so conveyed, turned over, and transferred, then the value of the same.

In witness whereof the said.....have caused these presents to be executed by their.....and their corporate seal to be hereunto affixed this.....day of.....one thousandhundred and.....

This certifies that I have examined the accounts of S. F. Wilkins, Esq., Treasurer of the Congregational Education Society, for the twelve months ending June 1, 1901, and find them correct as above stated.

I have also examined the Securities held by the Treasurer, and find them correctly stated in their various investments.

Boston, June 19, 1901.

H. N. ACKERMAN, Auditor.

NOTE.—Of the balance of $18,323.99, the sum of $1,980.85 is principal awaiting reinvestment; the sum of $3,070.06 is the income of the student aid funds held for payment of the autumn grants; the sum of $1,897.27 is designated money in process of being forwarded to specified institutions. Of the remainder of $10,466.81, $5,000 is the proceeds of the sale of New Mexico property kept for the New West work; while the balance of $5,466.81 is for payment of this year's final accounts with schools (salaries, etc.).
